KEN Murray SAYS:

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—It's beginning to look as though "I Love A Parade" will also be one of the campaign songs, now that John W. Davis has officially fallen in line with the other disgruntled Democrats who are going to aid Landon. . . . Apparently, that old Democratic Donkey is suffering from fallen arch-supporters.

From the fervor with which those boys are confessing the error of their ways, you'd think you were witnessing an old time revival. . . . They all seem to be singing, "Hand Me Down My Walkin' Shoes."

With so many of the old unemployed Democratic leaders going to work for the G.O.P., you can hardly blame the New Dealers for believing that old saying "Nation finds plenty of work for idle hands to do." . . . You know, just like a WPA executive.

P. S. What I can never understand is how a presidential candidate can be all the wonderful things his party says about him, and still be so completely forgotten after he is defeated.

"but the men in the intimate circle of his advisers have the pattern of their planned economy before them."

Puzzle Takes Shape

"What at first seemed a confused jigsaw puzzle to those outside of that charmed circle, has been taking shape in the last three years. Our homes, our communities, our jobs, and our businesses are to be directed from Washington. The profit motive is to be eliminated, business as we know it is to disappear."

Another of the jigsaw puzzle is moved into place. Here is a piece labeled NRA. It tells men how their businesses must be run. Here is another piece labeled AAA. It tells farmers what they shall plant and limits the food productions of the nation. Here is another piece, the latest tax measure, that will hinder business institutions from building up reserves to see them through another depression and that in the event of such a depression will force them into bankruptcy or into the hands of the government.

Rubber Stamp Congress

"And here is another piece, one huge blank check after another, given by a rubber stamp congress to an all-powerful president, which if continued, will make congress a mere arm of the executive. And finally comes the last piece, the most jagged piece of all, that of deficit spending and deliberate inflation which go hand in hand and which eventually create the misery, the poverty, the hopelessness out of which dictatorships arise."

CENTRALIZED GOVERNMENT AUTHORITY DEBATE SUBJECT

Good and bad features of "running the country" from the national government center in Washington, D. C., will be presented in debate form by Sharpless Walker, local attorney, and R. C. Hoiles, publisher of The Register, tomorrow night at the Forum for Political and Economic Education in the Junior College building, 917 North Main, W. H. (Ted) Blanding, arrangements committee chairman, announced today.

Walker will take the affirmative, Hoiles, the negative, on the subject, "Resolved, that it is to the interest of Society that the Centralization of Government Authority, as Advocated by the Present Administration, Become the Law of the Land."

"This is one of the key questions facing the voters at this coming election," Blanding declared. "It is a question of whether or not the federal government should have control, as advocated by the present administration. The fact that Walker and Hoiles differ on fundamentals regarding the question and have repeatedly shown that difference in articles in the newspaper should add zest to the debate. Both of the speakers are very sincere in what they advocate. It is a fundamental proposition as to how much the federal government should have control over the states and over the private lives of the citizens."

The public is invited to attend the meeting and to enter into the general discussion to follow the talks.

On report of Mrs. C. E. Watkins, 544 North Parton, that an automobile standing at the curb near her home Friday night and all day Saturday night had been stolen, city police impounded the vehicle for safe keeping, at a local garage. The car is registered to Harvey V. Poland, 109 North Los Angeles street, Anaheim. It was taken to the garage at 2 a. m. today.

Accused of using sling-shots to hurl stones against the home of Mrs. Ida King, 1610 West Eighth, last evening, three youthful Santa Ana boys were investigated by Officers Roy Hartley and J. B. Stephenson. The officers "impounded" the three sling-shots as the boys' mothers were called in to "take care of" their sons.

BOOK LAMPOONS NINE JUSTICES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(UP)—The nine justices of the supreme court were lampooned today in a book entitled "Nine Old Men," written by Robert S. Allen and Drew Pearson, Washington correspondents, who started satirizing capital official circles several years ago in "Washington Merry-Go-Round."

The book is expected to cause greater reaction than any of the authors' earlier volumes, because the court has seldom been written about in style as biting as theirs. The greater part of the book, written in pungent newspaper style, is devoted to the personalities and background of the nine men who held invalid the NRA, AAA, minimum wages for women and the Guffy coal control act.

the prime objective of the proposed investigation.

Judge Ames declared that he could not believe either the district attorney's office nor the sheriff's office could be involved in any such arrangement; the fact that Lusk and his aides had been arrested and prosecuted appeared to settle that point; but that the grand jury is the proper body to sift such charges, the court observed.

Lusk had been questioned in court this morning whether testimony by District Attorney Investigator Robert Sandon and Chief James Bouldin, of the Anaheim police, that Lusk had once been warned and closed his place for two days, then reopened it, was true.

Lusk replied that the statements were true, and then explained that he had reopened his place because "Bishop" had told him protection had been arranged with both the district attorney and sheriff, and it would be all right to reopen his place.

Bishop, supposedly a resident of Balboa, had been collecting $11 per week from Lusk for certain services connected with the betting agency, and then began collecting an additional $35 per week for the "protection," Lusk said. That was about six weeks before the authorities raided Lusk's establishment and others in the county, including a group at Balboa who come to trial tomorrow.

Warburg Abandons Landon; Praises Hull's Policies!

Two weeks before election—and after four months of campaigning—the public is keenly aware of the fact that the Republican party is trying to slip into power without offering anything that even resembles a constructive program.

The party staked its hope of victory on a blanket attack directed against every policy of the Roosevelt Administration. The plan was simple enough—to stir up sectional and partisan hatreds in the hope that the aggregate would add up to a majority.

The speeches of Gov. Landon, Col. Knox and Chairman John Hamilton are full of scorn, derision and catch-all charges against the Administration. You can search these same speeches with a microscope BARRAGE. Why does Gov. Landon continue to criticize instead of explaining his policies?

without finding anything that even suggests a Republican program.

The public is getting tired of this sort of business and now the reaction has set in.

The result is a paradoxical situation both curious and amusing. The Republican party is now basing its appeal to the voters on the words of men who are actively and vigorously condemning the Republican nominee, Gov. Landon, and supporting President Roosevelt for re-election.

This is notably true of the two Virginia Senators, Carter Glass and Harry F. Byrd, both Democrats. They have criticized phases of the Roosevelt program during the past three years; they have stanchily supported other parts of that program. The Republican National Committee is now circulating their adverse comments far and wide without mentioning the fact that Senators Glass and Byrd are intensely against the election of Gov. Landon.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

The Republicans likewise circulated a statement, criticizing one of the Roosevelt policies, which was made by Senator Josiah Bailey (D) of North Carolina. Senator Bailey is an active Administration supporter and is constantly attacking the Republican party.

The latest embarrassment for the Republicans is the announcement by James P. Warburg, that he intends to vote for President Roosevelt because of the Hull trade policy. The amusing part is that the Republican National Committee paid for and circulated literally hundreds of thousands of copies of his two books entitled, "Hell-bent for Election" and "Still Hell-bent."

Although he disliked the Roosevelt policies, Mr. Warburg apparently became disgusted when he listened to the meaningless campaign speeches made by Gov. Landon and Col. Knox.

WARBURG TELLS WHY

Praising Secretary Hull for his efforts at reviving world trade and stabilizing world currencies, Mr. Warburg said:

"Unfortunately, the Republican platform and the Republican campaign as developed to date openly attack this principle at the very time when the present Administration is approaching it more closely. To attack this principle is to attack the fundamental basis of all liberty and all liberalism.

The Republican campaign has now been reduced to the limits of absurdity. Its appeal to the electorate is based upon the words of men who say the Republican party cannot be trusted in power.

Dr. Emmett Raitt Back from Clinics

Dr. Emmett J. Raitt returned to his office here today after 16 days spent at medical conferences and visiting clinics in St. Paul and Chicago.

Outstanding men in medical affairs were listed among the speakers at these sessions. Dr. Raitt said that, at one evening meeting, the speakers included the surgeon-generals of the army, navy and public health service. It was at this same session that Drs. Charles and Will Mayo received the bronze medal of the International Assembly.

From St. Paul Dr. Raitt went to Rochester, Minn., where he spent four days at the Mayo clinic before going to Chicago where he spent two days at the Dr. M. J. Percy clinic.

Fire Laddies Hunt For Lost Mascot

Wanted—one beautiful, blue Maltese cat, long haired and named "Nuisance"! But she isn't half the bother that her name implies, according to Capt. Charles N. Turner, head of Fire Station No. 4 headquarters, 625 Cypress street, today. For she has been the station mascot for the past six months and is a popular "member" of the fire department.

"Nuisance strayed away not long ago and we have been seeking her since," Captain Turner declared. "She's about half-grown, gentle and friendly. She often rides around in the automobiles of the men from Station 4. If someone in Santa Ana knows where she is and wants to make a bunch of fire fighters happy again, we'll be mighty happy to hear from that someone."

Christian Science

Job's words, "The righteous also shall hold on his way, and he that hath clean hands shall be stronger and stronger," were the Golden Text in the Lesson-Sermon on "Probation after Death," on Sunday, in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

The Lesson-Sermon included these verses from Revelation: "After this I beheld, and, lo, a great multitude, which no man could number, of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, stood before the throne, and before the Lamb, clothed in white robes, and palms in their hands; . . . And one of the elders answered, saying unto me, 'What are these which stand arrayed in white robes?' and whence came they? And I said unto him, 'Sir, thou knowest. And he said to me, 'These are they which came out of great tribulation, and have washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb.'"

A passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, stated: "Every day makes its demands upon us for higher proofs rather than professions of Christian power. These proofs consist solely in the destruction of sin, sickness, and death by the power of Spirit, as Jesus destroyed them."

OFFICE BOY AT WPA OFFICES HAS REAL JOB

BY GEORGE E. HART

This correspondent is not particularly interested in the dispute over whether that song, "Bow Down to Washington" is only a college ditty, or really has been made the national anthem.

What we are all hotting up about is whether we can get a nice spot with WPA. A spot like Harry Kessler's. Boy, that would be something! Boy! Perhaps we should say, office boy!

Harry Kessler is the office boy at WPA. He is easily the office boy of all office boys. He gets $80 per month, plus.

That may not sound exciting, until you hear about the plus. The plus is this:

First, Harry has his own private office. That's something, of course, but even that isn't the main part of the plus.

Behind his office, Harry has some more private quarters. They are all fixed up as a recreational room, fitted with a radio, games, etc. Folks, this is all Harry's, even if the county, which pays WPA's rent, does provide it.

Harry collects dues from the other WPA ten percenters, for admission to and use of the recreational room and its appurtenances.

There are no cobwebs across the door, either. The WPA ten percenters use this room plenty. It's a godsend to them during working hours, to while away the monotony and boredom of waiting until quitting time. They'd die of ennui if it wasn't for Harry and his back room.

And what does Harry do for all this besides maybe being directly related to Jim Farley? He must have a terrific responsibility, you'll say. You're right. Every day, Harry has to walk three blocks to NRS headquarters, and bring back a list of names to WPA.

Truly, the Democratic ten percenters lead a hard life.

MISSING YOUTH OF H. B. FOUND ILL IN CHINA

After opening a treacherous river to navigation and saving a sacred Chinese temple from fire, Woody Mandeville, former Huntington Beach high school football star, has been located, seriously ill in Kuling, China. He had been lost to his friends for two years.

Mandeville was located through the efforts of Clarence Double and Nancy Clapp, both of this city and former schoolmates of the globe-trotter and adventurer. After attempts to communicate with him by mail had failed, the two friends appealed to the American Express company in Shanghai. That company located Mandeville through his mother who had just reached his bedside in a Kuling hospital. He is stricken with a malady believed contracted while he roamed the Tibetan, plateau and Chinese plains.

When the adventurer's mother learned that friends here were worried over his long absence she sent a radiogram through an amateur operator in Shanghai who relayed it to another amateur, W. Cooper, at Santa Barbara. Cooper brought the word to Huntington Beach.

When he was stricken Mandeville, sometimes called "Lindbergh of China" was on his second world tour. He became a hero in Tibet when he formed a bucket brigade and saved a temple from destruction by fire.

Later he opened the Tung river for navigation from the Tibetan frontier to the coast. It was this adventure that nearly cost the lives of Mandeville and his companion Gene Roubin. The two adventurers built a boat of yak skin over a bamboo framework. The boat was constructed in a courtyard in Tibet and when Tibetan and Chinese civil and military authorities saw the frailty of the craft they shook their heads over the possible outcome. When the boat was completed the two men started their perilous trip and opened a navigation route from Tachienlu to Shanghai.

News Behind The News

By Paul Mallon

QUESTION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—President Roosevelt meets the press twice each week, even if he has nothing to say. The partisan, neutral and even communist newsmen and women shoot questions at him for 15 minutes to half an hour about every conceivable question of government. No questions are barred.

Consequently, more than routine significance may be attached to the fact that Mr. Roosevelt has called off his last two press conferences. He never did that before. On occasions he has called off one conference, but never two in succession. And not in the midst of a campaign when publicity for his viewpoint is a vital necessity to his cause.

Publicity men ordinarily advise their statesmen to avoid the press only when they wish to avoid certain questions, usually one particular question. There are many times when a refusal to answer or a negative response will arouse extensive public speculation. The only thing to do is to duck, and wait.

Naturally, there has been ant-room speculation about what question Mr. Roosevelt may have wanted to avoid, or delay temporarily, last week, but not very wide speculation. The verdict was practically unanimous. There was only one bothersome question at the time. It was the one with which Republicans from Governor Landon on down have been annoying the White House since Jimmy Roosevelt offered some observations about NRA purposes and constitutional amendments to a Massachusetts political crowd.

In fact, it is more than an excellent guess that certain partisan and neutral newsmen intended to press Mr. Roosevelt for clarifying explanations at either of the two press conferences called off. He deprived them of the opportunity.

TODAY'S ELECTION SPECIALS

New Jersey—Survey shows Landon should win by about 100,000, but surveys are not as conclusive in New Jersey as elsewhere. The Hague adding machine sometimes counts thousands of voters who are missed by surveys. Sure-thing bettors generally avoid New Jersey.

Kansas—The signs point to a Landon victory here by a small majority. The Republican claim of a 95,000 majority is probably too high. The best authority on the state says 25,000. One canvass indicates only about 3000.

California—Republican activity has increased lately and the Democrats are still sitting on their hands, but the clockers say Mr. Roosevelt by about 450,000.

TRIBUTE

The public did not appreciate the greatest service which the late Senator Couzens performed in his behalf. He fathered few bills. His legislative activity consisted largely of exposing defects in tax bills, and for this he was known. But the one thing for which he stood above all others was "open covenants, openly arrived at." He declined to be a party to senatorial committee secrecy. He insisted among his senatorial comrades on the right to say how he voted, what he did and what he thought in executive committee sessions. His hatred of political secrecy was his dominant characteristic in public life.

PAY-OFF

The 10 states to which the first 102 new farm benefit payments were sent two weeks before election were not pulled out of a hat. Three of the 10 were Republican states, Maine, Kansas and Delaware. Three were sure Roosevelt states, Mississippi, Louisiana and Tennessee. Four were sharply contested battlegrounds, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Iowa and North Dakota.

The AAA crowd obviously wanted to place the states so as to avoid political criticism, but the laugh behind it was that nearly three-fourths of the first checks went into doubtful Pennsylvania. In fact, the Pennsylvania farmers got $7738 of the first $8836 dispensed.

AAA-ers explain the amount is not large, but is "a sample" of what is to come.

WELLINGTON NAMED ON NATIONAL BOY SCOUT COMMITTEE

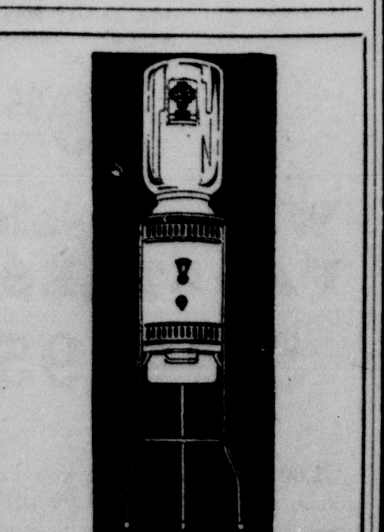

Word of the election of Col. M. B. Wellington, leader in Boy Scout work here for many years, as a member of the Executive committee of the 12th region, Boy Scouts of America, has been received at the office of the scout organization here.

Notification of his election to the post with the national organization was sent Colonel Wellington by C. J. Carlson, regional scout executive. In his notice to Wellington, Carlson pointed out that his election came at the recent annual sectional meeting by unanimous vote of the council delegates.

The committee, according to Harrison White, executive for Orange county, meets three or four times each year, in San Francisco and Los Angeles, at the call of the chairman. It is expected that Charles E. Rinehart, chairman of the committee, will call a meeting for next month at which time the committee will be reorganized on a regional and sectional basis with vice-chairmen for the various sections being named.

The car is described as a pick-up Chevrolet, 1928 model, bearing Oregon license, L-11-509.

TROUSERS STOLEN WHILE MAN SLEEPS

A burglar who used a piece of wire to unhook the rear screen door at 408 South Garnsey, entered the place where several persons were asleep, and stole a pair of trousers belonging to R. J. Weston, and containing a wallet with pictures, receipts and $11 in cash. Weston's trousers and empty wallet were found by Mrs. Fred Smith, the following morning on the rear porch steps of the Smith home, nearby, at 809 Myrtle. Officer Charles Wolford reported it was the same burglar who entered the A. D. Hoenshel home, 701 South Garnsey, the same night, to carry away a quantity of loot.

NINE RED CROSS CHAPTERS REPRESENTED AT CONCLAVE

A perfect day, in a beautiful setting stimulated the Regional Red Cross Conference held for nine chapters in Southern California, at Laguna Beach on Saturday.

Mrs. Esther Chadbourn, field representative for the chapters in Southern California, spoke first on the morning program which began at 10 o'clock at the Lynn theater with Col. M. B. Wellington of Santa Ana presiding.

Mrs. Chadbourn said 55 per cent of the increase in membership in the state last year came from Southern California chapters, as well as many other outstanding developments. One striking illustration was that of the Upland chapter where they had hesitated over appointing and training a disaster relief committee but did. When six months later a wall of water came down a nearby canyon carrying loss of life and disaster to many families, they saw the value of preparing for sudden emergencies.

The principal address in the morning was given by A. L. Schafer, manager of the Pacific area, National Red Cross. He stressed the importance of the roll call committees urging a membership invitation be carried to every adult in the community. The committee he mentioned were: residence roll call, urging the importance of not missing any one, and seeing that all had an invitation to join. Experience has taught the Red Cross that such careful planning has greatly enlarged the results; business men's canvases and special large gifts committee, also the committee on rural area. Mr. Schafer said no harm was done if the husbands in their business places and wives in the homes were invited to join.

An illustration of larger gifts was given of a man in Santa Maria who has contributed $500 every year for the past five years to the special gifts committee.

Others who spoke in the morning were E. E. Campbell, roll call chairman for the Orange chapter, and Harry Welsh, roll call chairman of Fullerton chapter.

In the closing hour of the morning a flood relief film, "The Red Cross to the Rescue" was shown, many local people coming in to see the film.

Eighty persons sat down to the noon luncheon in the Laguna Beach hotel which was colorful with Red Cross posters and flags. The tables were gay with shell ships carrying rainbow sails, made by the Santa Ana Junior Red Cross under the direction of Miss Hazel Bemus, chairman of Junior Red Cross.

The invocation was given by Rev. Robert M. Hogarth, Laguna Beach. Col. M. B. Wellington introduced R. King Kaufman, chairman San Diego chapter, who presided at the luncheon and afternoon meeting. Dr. T. S. Miller of Laguna Beach brought greetings from the city of Laguna Beach. Mrs. James F. Watkins of Balboa, representing the southern district of the Federated Women's club, was introduced as a special guest.

James K. McClintock of Washington, D.C., in charge of finance at national headquarters, gave an address on "Why Allegiance to the Red Cross." Mr. McClintock developed four main qualifications an organization must possess in order to command allegiance: 1. A worthy and great origin; 2. Develop naturally in its field; 3. Must be rendering its program effectively; 4. Must have a great future. "Because of its worthy and great origin, its development, its effective program, and its great future the Red Cross does command allegiance," Mr. McClintock stated.

Concerning finances, Mr. McClintock stated that since June 1, 1919, the national organization has spent $39,800,000 more than it has received in membership fees during the same period. "It takes some reserve to be ever prepared for the responsibilities imposed by the Red Cross charter," Mr. McClintock emphasized.

Seeking to learn from the chapters what special difficulties were being encountered in the development of home hygiene and care of the sick classes, first aid, life saving, home and farm accident prevention and first aid stations on the highways, a discussion was led by Mrs. A. L. Schafer. Dr. Paul and Miss Edith Forrest of San Diego, and Harry Edwards of Santa Ana spoke on first aid and the highway stations. George T. De Roullhas of Santa Ana spoke on home and farm accident prevention and his plans as chairman of this committee.

Mr. Schafer closed the conference at 3:30 with the thought that it is not so much what we do that counts but what we are, that has brought greatness to the Red Cross.

Chapters and branch representatives were: Riverside county, San Diego county, Anaheim, Orange, Olive, Fullerton, Brea, Placentia, Garden Grove, Huntington Beach, Santa Ana and Laguna Beach. Santa Ana persons at the conference were Miss Margaret Esau, Mrs. Harry Pickard, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Edwards, Dr. and Mrs. James Farrage, Col. M. B. Wellington, Dr. John Wehrly, Donald Jerome and George T. De Roullhas.

Huntington Beach sent Mrs. Pearl Jones, Mrs. Foster Elliot, Mrs. L. H. Benningdorf and William Gallienne.

Garden Grove was represented by Mrs. Nicholas, Mrs. Allen W. Goddard and Mrs. C. C. Violet.

The British House of Commons once adjourned to see 11-year-old William Betty, boy prodigy, play Hamlet. Betty could master the most difficult Shakespearean parts with ease.

WEST WINDS

Here and There in Local Sport

WALKER FINDS SOUTHERN HOSPITALITY AT OLE MISS

This will make his friends on the University of Southern California coaching staff cringe, but it's a fact, Vic Walker, the Trojan war-horse himself, is now an "honorary" alumnus of the University of Mississippi.

They had a "day" for the Santa Ana sportsman at Ole Miss Saturday.

At the request of the chancellor of the college and other officials, Walker sped south by airplane for Mississippi's Homecoming Game with Catholic U. The folk down there wanted to show their appreciation for the football stars Walker had steered their way, notably Ray and Clarence Hapes of Garden Grove.

Vic boarded a plane at Glendale Thursday afternoon and reached Memphis Friday morning. Coach Ed Walker (no relation) of Ole Miss and one of the freshmen coaches met him at the Memphis airport at 6 a. m. That meant Coach Walker had to shake himself out of the hay at 3 a. m. in Oxford, 75 miles away.

That was just the beginning of the day of days for the Santa Ana.

"I came home with a deeper appreciation of Southern football and courtesy than I ever had known," Walker said. "I had heard of Southern hospitality. Now I know it."

"Everyone treated me royally. I hobnobbed with the top-men of Mississippi. They all were there for the game. I was rushed into the alumni gathering. It was at one of them that I was inducted as an honorary alumnus." They presented me to the student body and made me speak a piece. It was quite a thrill."

Walker said the Mississippi-Catholic game was a brilliant 14-0 victory for Ole Miss and believes it will spur that team on to greater heights after several unlucky starts. It was between the same teams that played in the Orange Bowl game last New Year's day. Catholic won at Miami but Saturday Ole Miss turned the tables.

Ray Hapes broke loose in the first three minutes of play for a 60-yard touchdown gallop that was nullified by a downfield penalty for clipping. Both Ray and Clarence had a field day—running well, intercepting passes and throwing and catching them.

Walker reports the Orange county contingent—the Hapes and Walt Hickman, Dick Moore and Burt Kidd—all well and happy.

Walker was almost caught in a big storm that swept the south and feels he was lucky to get through. His plane was the last one out of Fort Worth for two days. His ship home was the first to leave Memphis in the same period.

DOT'S SO:

The football bug has bitten little Laguna Beach. They say they're going to close all the shops there next Friday when the Artists go to Brea for what amounts to a Minor league championship game.

Boy, does that guy West pick 'em. Purdue over Minnesota, he said. Score: Purdue 0, Minnesota 33.

Dick Ewert of Santa Ana played in the Champions' golf tournament—open only to club champions of Southern California—in Lakeside Sunday but was in so many traps he didn't even turn in his card.

No, that San Bernardino end who was carried off the field here the other night wasn't as badly injured as was immediately feared. He was able to go home under his own power.

The game in The Register's contest that caused the most grief last week was not Texas and Rice BUT Utah and Utah State. Virtually everyone had Utah.

The city's take' from two football games and the Mexican motorcycle quadron show at the Bowl last week-end ran around $200. The Mexicans crossed over a grand.

Next Saturday's Games

Alhambra at Santa Ana; Long Beach at Woodrow Wilson; San Diego at Herbert Hoover.

Stubborn Sammy Saint drops back into his own class next Saturday, meeting a school of his own size in the Moors of Alhambra.

It will be a pleasant sensation as Santa Ana's first two starts in Coast Preparatory league company this year were with (1) huge, overgrown San Diego and (2) mighty Long Beach, undefeated in the high school gridiron since 1932.

Because of Alhambra's surprising 14-6 win over San Diego, keeping the Moors in the conference race, there is a good chance the Santa Ana-Alhambra battle will be booked into the Municipal Bowl next Saturday as an accommodation to Alhambra's hoped-up fans.

The Santa Ana-Alhambra game was played there last Saturday day was played there and drew a crowd of 2500.

Hares Capture 21st in Row

Long Beach managed to run up its twenty-first successive victory, 13 to 0, but from Coach Orion Landreth down to his lowliest substitute they were a thoroughly frightened hand of Jackrabbits.

An aroused, embittered Saint gave the champions an uneasy time, holding them scoreless through a half.

Aware they could not match Long Beach's heavy artillery, fired by hard-hitting Bob Berryman, the Saints "dug in" for their finest defensive effort of the season.

They did not figure to stop the Jackrabbits under four or five touchdowns. But they held 'em to two, and the element of chance figured in both.

The Jackrabbits made both touchdowns in the first five minutes of the second half.

Long Beach opened by kicking off to Quarterback Tucker. He ran it back to his 21. Musick made three and then Halfback Len Stafford fumbled. The ball shot straight into the arms of Fullback Bill Elmore of Long Beach and he reached Santa Ana's 20 yard line. It was a tough break for Sammy Saint.

Pass Goes For Touchdown

Berryman made 2 and then 3 yards. Elmore made it a first down on the 8. Berryman faked a run, fired a pass over the goal to Halfback Harold Sexton for a touchdown. Sexton was all alone, and there again a bit of luck helped Long Beach. As he started back to cover his zone, Halfback Stafford of the Saints fell flat on his back.

Berryman showed his powerful running ability when he added the extra point. Quentin Klenk, Poly captain, went back to try a place-kick but the pass to Berryman was so high Berryman had to stand up and catch it. Instead of throwing the ball, he ran left end. Three or four Saint tacklers had a chance to bring him down but Berryman ran over 'em and reached the goal. That made it 7-0.

Long Beach scored again in less than a minute.

The Hares kicked off to Nott on the Santa Ana 33. Sexton intercepted Nott's pass and carried the ball to the 36-yard line. On the next play, the powerful Berryman broke through right tackle and ran 36 yards for a touchdown. Again the big boy was hit three or four times to no avail, and Tucker, the Saint safety, was blocked out of the play completely. Klenk missed his try for the extra point.

Saints Refuse To Quit

Everyone expected Santa Ana to fold up after that but instead Coach Bill Foot's team went to work and carried the fight to the champions. True, the Saints were never able to drive into Long Beach territory—being held to a total of 68 yards—but Long Beach couldn't do anything either. Coach Landreth was so alarmed he kept his first string intact until the last minute of play. Long Beach attaches said it was the toughest ball game they had played this year.

Santa Ana's improvement was due to the determined defensive department of its line. Ferris Wall, right tackle, was the outstanding man on the field. Berryman excepted. Wall stopped or slowed down all but one play that the 'Rabbits fired over his side of the line. All the Long Beach gains were made inside tackle on the other side. Jim Johnson, tall colored lad, was another Saint star. Promoted to the first string only a week ago, Johnson turned in a smashing game at left end. Don Warhurst at center and Bob Maddock at right guard were other standouts. Joe Kadowaki and Bill Musick backed up the line well. "Bud" Hamaker played but a few minutes but ran 20 yards the only time he was given a chance. He got away from every one except Berryman, playing safety.

Berryman Game's Hero

Berryman, who ought to be fine running mate for Brother Dick at S. C. in a couple of years, was the hero of the game—as he was in '35 when Long Beach slaughtered Santa Ana, 32-6. Klenk played swell ball at right tackle, and down on the 8. Berryman faked a run, fired a pass over the goal to Halfback Harold Sexton for a touchdown. Sexton was all alone, and there again a bit of luck helped Long Beach. As he started back to cover his zone, Halfback Stafford of the Saints fell flat on his back.

Berryman showed his powerful running ability when he added the extra point. Quentin Klenk, Poly captain, went back to try a place-kick but the pass to Berryman was so high Berryman had to stand up and catch it. Instead of throwing the ball, he ran left end. Three or four Saint tacklers had a chance to bring him down but Berryman ran over 'em and reached the goal. That made it 7-0.

Long Beach scored again in less than a minute.

The Hares kicked off to Nott on the Santa Ana 33. Sexton intercepted Nott's pass and carried the ball to the 36-yard line. On the next play, the powerful Berryman broke through right tackle and ran 36 yards for a touchdown. Again the big boy was hit three or four times to no avail, and Tucker, the Saint safety, was blocked out of the play completely. Klenk missed his try for the extra point.

STANFORD, CAL. ELEVEN'S BOTH 'COLLUSION SHELL'

Hallowe'en on Grid

It's Hallowe'en every Saturday for Andy Roddenberry, University of Georgia quarterback. Andy, suffering from a broken nose, has to wear a special mask to protect his face. Here he is with the awesome helmet that any youngster would be proud to wear on Oct. 31, the night the witches cavort.

A realignment of Pacific Coast conference football prestige, sharpened by weekend results, placed U. S. C., Washington and Washington State in the top spots and brought home forcibly to coast fans that Stanford and California, usually dangerous in any league, are but shadows of their former selves this season.

It appeared that the Trojan Husky tilt three weeks hence might be the key encounter of the year and possibly the game from which the Pacific Coast's Rose Bowl candidate may emerge, although Washington State is still a member in very good standing in the conference battle.

Stanford Invades L. A.

U. S. C. continued to be impressive by beating Stanford 14-7, thus keeping the Cardinals on the red ink side of the games-week ledger. The Indians, who ruled the conference either factually or nominally for three years, have yet to win a game. Next Saturday they battle U. C. L. A. at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Washington ran circles around California at Seattle, using its streamlined backfield—especially Cain and Haines—to put the Bears on the defense and put them there through most of the game. The Berkeley squad got but one first down as the Huskies won 13-0.

Next Saturday Washington plays Oregon at Portland in the Northwest "Big Game," and Coach Jimmy Pheasant is worried about it. Each year Oregon seems to play its best game against Washington, and many times has contradicted statistics and beaten the Huskies against apparent odds.

Oregon Scores Cougars

Oregon last Saturday nearly stopped Washington state, holding the extra point, virtually at a standstill. The Hollingsberry-men, finally won 3-0 on the strength of Roger Dougherty's field goal.

U. S. C. rests this Saturday and will have two weeks' time to prepare for California and Washington on successive Saturdays.

Washington State and California clash at Berkeley Saturday. In the meantime, Santa Clara tackles Auburn of Alabama at Kezar stadium. Idaho takes on Gonzaga and Montana invades Corvallis to play Oregon State, who lost 23-13 to U. C. L. A.

Montana beat Montana State 27-0 Saturday. University of Nevada eked out a 7-6 win over Idaho at Reno. St. Mary's lost 13-8 to the Redhams in the principal game of the annual eastern invasion and Gonzaga downed San Francisco 17-7 in a Sunday game. U. S. F. plays Portland next Sunday while at Los Angeles the Marines meet Loyola.

GIANTS SEIZE LEAD IN PRO GRID LEAGUE

(By United Press)

New York's professional Giants stood at the head of the Eastern division of the National league today after whipping the Philadelphia Eagles, 21 to 7, yesterday.

The decision gave the Giants a record of three wins against two losses for a percentage of .600. The Pittsburgh Pirates dropped to second place as they were overthrown by the Green Bay Packers, 42 to 10.

The Chicago Bears remained undefeated by nosing out the league champion Detroit Lions, 12 to 10 to take a tighter grip on first place in the Western division. Brooklyn handed the Chicago Cardinals their sixth straight loss, 9 to 0, with Ralph Kerechval scoring at the points with a 20-yard placekick, and a 56-yard gallop to a touchdown.

Grist at left end was a revelation. Both Long Beach guards were strong.

After an easy week, Santa Ana's Dons begin work today for five tough games in a row—the first five Friday night with U. C. L. A.'s sensational freshman eleven. Pomona, Riverside, Chaffey and Fullerton follow in rapid succession.

Football fans with uncertain hearts and short fingernails probably should avoid the first point of call on the Dons' list, the Bruin babe conflict.

This one is sure to be a wide open, free-scoring affair. With their great pass-throwing and open-field-running quarterback, colored Kenny Washington, the Westwood yearlings take to the air early and often. And Coach Bill Cook of the Santa Anans says he's going to have his men throw the ball around a little themselves. He said their exhibition of "Texas football" against San Bernardino last week was just practice for the U. C. L. A. outfit.

Cook Scouts Freshmen

Cook personally scouted the Bruin freshmen against Stanford's frosh at the Coliseum Saturday when the U. C. L. A. men came from behind in the last few minutes of play to score a 23-18 victory. Stanford's papooses were previously, undefeated, having beaten the U. S. C. babes, 7-6. U. C. L. A.'s only setback was a 14-12 affair at Berkeley two weeks ago.

The Bruins are rated as the classiest frosh team in U. C. L. A.'s history and with their two Negro sensations, Washington and Woodrow Wilson Strode, a gigantic pass snaggling and, really, made things tough for the Stanford Frosh. With only three minutes to play, Washington ran 55 yards to Stanford's 11-yard line from where the Bruin babes put over the winning touchdown after Stanford had overcome a 17-point lead the Bruins had rung up in the first half.

Coach Cook will employ the same tactics he used against San Bernardino, alternating a new team each quarter. He says the boys will be given orders to throw the pigskin at every opportunity.

Koepsel Turns In Togs

Quarterback Vernon Koepsel, speediest football player in the Eastern conference, probably will drop football for the remainder of the season. Koepsel was not in suit Friday night and it is understood he is anxious to devote more time to his studies with the idea of enrolling in the school of medicine at the University of California at Berkeley.

In the Eastern conference, Riverside takes on Pomona in the most important game of the week. Citrus inaugurates Chaffey's new lighting system at Ontario. Fullerton should break into the "W" column at San Bernardino. The Indians looked weak against Santa Ana last week.

BASKETBALL BEGINS AT JUNIOR COLLEGE

(By Duncan Clark)

Basketball practice gets under way at Santa Ana junior college tomorrow, with prospects not so bright as they seemed with the beginning of the college year.

Coach Blanchard Beatty said that workouts of an informal nature will be held twice a week at the Y. M. C. A. every Tuesday and Thursday at the regular 12:30 gym period. Later in the semester night practice will be inaugurated, Beatty stated.

Prospects of repeating last year's fine showing have dwindled with the failure of several promising out-of-state boys to appear and the loss of Captain Len Lockhart, outstanding guard in the Eastern conference last season, to San Bernardino.

Tom Lacy, Fred Erdhaus and John Bruley are a few of the boys expected to make strong bids for the team.

WATERFOWL SEASON TO BEGIN ON NOV. 1

The somewhat restricted open season for hunting waterfowl, snipe and coot, will start November 1 and extend through November 30, according to official notice received today by County Clerk J. M. Backs from George D. Nordeholt, of the state fish and game commission.

The "hunting, taking or killing" of waterfowl, Wilson's snipe or Jacksnipe, and coot, will be permitted between the hours of 7 a. m. and 4 p. m. during the open season, an exception being made in the case of the snipe, which may be hunted from 7 a. m. to sunset.

ART MORLEY, C. R. ALDEN WIN REGISTER'S FOOTBALL CONTEST

Honors in last week's Register Football Contest were shared by Art Morley of 180 Rochester street, Costa Mesa, and C. R. Alden of 323 East Washington street, Orange.

They tied for first place by naming correctly the winners of 13 games on a list of 25. Register checks were mailed them today.

Both Morley and Alden missed the two ties, Baylor-Texas A. and M., and New York U.-Georgetown. Otherwise, they erred only four times. Morley lost the Redlands-Pomona, Michigan-Columbia, Duke-Tennessee and Missouri-Iowa State contests. He was one of the few who forecast the outcome of the Utah-Utah State upset. Alden "blew" only Notre Dame-Pitt. Duke-Tennessee, Missouri-Iowa State and Utah-Utah State.

Fifteen contestants finished on the heels of the two new champions, having only seven errors.

The runners-up were Mrs. Clara Green, Gordon Mallett, Lloyd Arthur, O. M. Aguirre, Johnny Reyes, George Lackaye, Earl C. Hobbs, K. K. Brand, Tom Engelmann, Mel Wiseman, Roger Low, Louie Boer, Joe Miguella, William Kolkoher and Seung Joon Park.

Noteworthy was the ballot of George Young, who hit both the games right on the nose. Mrs. I. T. Crowther, Dayle Creech and Harold Boyce also predicted the Baylor-Texas A. and M. deadlock. The

LAYDEN GIVEN FIRST BOOING

Notre Dame's Coach Rushes On Field To Protest

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26.—A fourth period outburst when few short side notes on the Pitt-Notre Dame game which saw Elmer Layden get the first, and probably the last, booing of his life.

Jock Sutherland, the Dundee dentist who coaches the Pittsburghs, thinned Notre Dame too fine a team to be beaten 26 to 0 by anybody.

Which is nice and considerate, but doesn't mean much when 50,000 of the 70,000 crowd which saw the game agree that the score might easily have been 40 (or more) to 0.

The half-time whistle a minute after Bobby Huff's 68-yard run to the Irish three-yard line cost Pitt six or seven points, and had Marshall Goldberg known enough to cut to the sidelines on his return of the third period kick-off he would have had a run of 100 yards instead of 50, and another touchdown.

And on Marshall's 50-yard run of a punt there would have been another score if the Pitt center, Hensley, hadn't decided to do a little day-dreaming and failed to cut down the Notre Dame safety.

But it's a critical man indeed who would spend much time finding fault with the Panthers Saturday. After all, they didn't yield a single first down until the first play of the fourth quarter, which certainly must be some sort of a record against Notre Dame.

The Irish got but four all day, and one of them was the result of successive offside penalties.

Notre Dame brought four full teams, and perhaps that's the reason for the rout.

The Irish never seemed quite sure which combination to use.

Notre Dame has one play down to perfection, however. The out-of-bounds pass. Three times they threw long and vigorous passes which were completed just as the receiver stepped off the fairway into the rough.

O'Reilly was on the catching end of two of them, and when the second one was called back his temper got the better of him, and he slammed the ball to the ground. This probably was a warm-up for his

GINSBERG AND KUDO COLLEGE IN JUDO FRAY

"Tarzan" Zim, known as the wild man of South America, and "Baby" Bob Coleman, claimant of the world middleweight wrestling title, clash in a widely discussed rematch tonight at the Orange County Athletic club.

The pair meet in a best two-out-of-three-fall finish affair that started last week when they fought outside the ring and were both disqualified.

Exactly opposites, Coleman and Zim make for a sensational battle. Coleman scales no more than 145 pounds, if that, while Zim weighs 180. Coleman is popular. Zim, with his long hair and bare feet, is a colorful character, none too popular, yet not exactly disliked. Coleman is a scientific performer. Zim climbs the ring posts and in general acts like a jungle ape, but is a fair country wrestler at that.

Almost as much interest is being displayed in the one fall semi-final between "Baron" Ginsberg and the clever Japanese champion, Kiman Kudo. They wrestle under Japanese judo rules. The Baron claims he has wrestled and defeated better men with the Japanese jackets than Kudo.

The special event features Louie Miller, former circus strong man, and Billy Hanson, young title aspirant, whom many claim will be the deal threat of the heavyweight division in another year. Hanson has wrestled main events in practically every mat center on the coast and figures to dispatch Miller in short order.

Recently returned from a northern invasion, second "Brother" Jonathan faces Al Baffert, clever French-Canadian in the opening one-fall, 30-minute affair.

Ewert Shoots 74 In High and Low Golf Tournament

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

WHEN GOVERNMENT CAN RULE LABOR

The other day I suggested the danger to labor in a too great lodgment of power over labor in the hands of the national government.

It is hard for some labor leaders to appreciate the long-run truth of this warning when the administration in power is so amenable to the demands of organized labor.

But where one president may be friendly another may be hostile to labor.

American labor may read with profit the news that Mussolini has by decree placed Italian labor on a sixty hour week.

Under the N.R.A. had it continued, an American president might have done the same to American labor.

Mr. Roosevelt and his colleagues desire this contention as bogey-mongering.

And they hold insistently to their belief in the soundness of a sweeping control of American enterprise from Washington.

James Roosevelt may have been indiscreet when, if reported correctly, he said that the President, upon reelection, would ask constitutional amendments that would make the N. R. A. the law of the land, but, discreet or indiscreet, he only reflected the obvious convictions of the administration.

Heaven and earth have been moved, since the invalidation of the N. R. A., the A. A. A. and other New Deal measures, to put them back under the tent in new forms.

I should be interested to know the form of reasoning that went on in the editorial councils of the New York Times before its editorial was written announcing its support of Mr. Roosevelt for reelection on the grounds—I am sure this is an unfair interpretation of the editorial—that Mr. Roosevelt would take a different tack after election.

Every act since the Supreme Court decisions on New Deal policies indicates that Mr. Roosevelt will be more determined than ever to work out his dream of a planned economy under which the total enterprise of the nation will be disciplined from Washington.

I am not here arguing for Mr. Landon or against Mr. Roosevelt so much as I am trying to underscore that fact that the decision of November 3 goes far beyond the Mark Hanna full-dinner-pail plea of Mr. Roosevelt to the more far-reaching problem of whether the nation shall run Washington or Washington run the nation.

And no group has a heavier stake in this issue than American labor.

FLAG IS BASIS OF ADDRESS AT LEAGUE PARLEY

VILLA PARK, Oct. 26.—At a meeting of the Home and School league of the Villa Park grammar school the latter part of the week, Mrs. Mary Morningstar gave a talk on the correct way to display the American flag and how to salute the national emblem correctly. Mrs. Morningstar is chairman of the committee on correct use of the American flag of Santa Ana chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mrs. Morningstar also gave a short history of the flag, stating that the globe, the spear head or the eagle could be used on the staff. The American eagle, she said, is not as many suppose a bird which takes the offensive but rather is a home loving bird that helps to care for its family.

A color film sponsored by the California Fruit Growers exchange was given a first showing and proved of interest to mothers present.

IT'S A NEW TAX ON YOUR FOOD

..and other necessities

They call Proposition #22 a "Retail Store License" to hide the fact that you will pay it

IT IS CLEVERLY NAMED to look like something else. But no one denies that its main purpose is to raise retail prices—to increase the cost of living for Californians who can least afford it!

When read carelessly, Proposition #22 sounds innocent enough. It taxes an individual store $1.00 a year for the right to do business. But it taxes chain stores $500.00 for each store over nine.

But, says the U. S. Federal Trade Commission:

"If the ability to undersell, based on greater efficiency or on elimination of credit and delivery cost, is destroyed by taxation, it is the consuming public which will really pay the tax and not the chain."

For chain stores operate on a small profit. They eliminate middlemen's profits and unnecessary in-between expense. The savings they make by operating efficiently are passed on to you in prices 10% below the average. The Harvard (University) School of Business Research states these to be the facts.

The tax is greater than the profit of four out of five chain stores. Thus some of them will be forced to close—allowing their competitors to raise prices.

Surviving chains will be forced to raise their prices to pay the "license."

In either case—you will foot the bill.

Admittedly not for revenue purposes, the tax is a cleverly masked attempt to subsidize the middleman and wasteful business methods—at your expense.

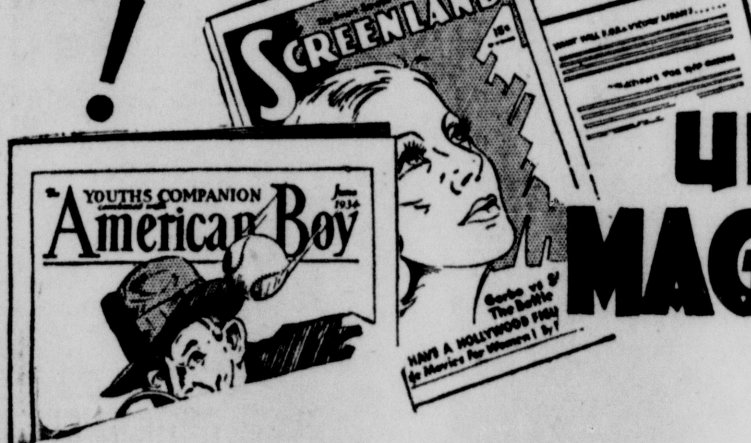

If you think that chain store competition helps to keep all prices reasonable—if you believe that taxes are high enough already, particularly on foods—vote NO and keep prices low.

For no matter what they call it...no matter how they try to conceal it...22 is a tax on you—VOTE NO!

22 IS A TAX ON YOU—VOTE NO!

RETAIL STORE LICENSE		Reference: Chapter 840, Statutes 1935, requiring every person or organization, owning, operating or controlling one or more stores, wherein merchandise is sold at retail, obtain annual state license; prescribing fifty cents application fee for each store and one dollar license fee for each store over nine, except filling stations, ice distributing establishments, restaurant facilities of common carriers, newspaper offices, stores wherein sales are incidental to rendering personal services, theatres and motion picture houses.

Jimmy Fidler in HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 24. — Idle chatter: Why not an Academy Award to Eleanor Whitney for having most vowels in her front name? Joan Crawford covers doorknobs with her handkerchief before she touches them. Doubles in personality: Andy Devine and Jumbo the elephant. Colorblind Bing Crosby is cast in an all-color picture; he will be unable to see himself as others see him. Jean Parker exudes vibrant personality. Candidate for silkiest hair: Alice Faye. Sounds silly, but to ready herself for a crying spasm Jeanette MacDonald need only think of her favorite dog's tragic death, months ago. Johnny Weissmuller's barber bills are adjacent to nil; because of his Tarzan role he gets only two haircuts annually.

Guinea pigs were rented for "Green Lights" at the rate of one dollar per rodent per day, and a studio efficiency man kept them in separate cages; he was taking no chances. A love-ly name: Dorothy Lamour. Hunting for stars in their dressing rooms carries me back to my god on the farm, hunting for stars in the hayloft. A fuzzy, stuffed rabbit in use on a set so nauseated Janet Gaynor that she required smelling salts. Jimmy Cagney's elegant smile: "Easier than counting visitors on a Garbo set." Is it possible Robert Taylor is getting too much publicity? Slim Summerville could pass for the story-book "Simple Simon."

Miriam Hopkins tells this amusing anecdote about Greta Garbo's absent-mindedness: Miriam moved into the old Garbo house on San Vicente road, enroute to Malibu. One early morning she was aroused by the crunch of wheels on the gravel driveway below her window. Looking out, she saw an automobile. Out hopped Garbo and started walking briskly toward the side door. Midway there she paused, glanced around wildly, then spun on heel and dashed back to her car. She raced from the grounds and drove madly away.

Greta had just returned from Europe, and Miriam believes that she had gone for a morning airing, and had momentarily forgotten that she no longer lived in the old residence.

While I am swapping yarns, let me pass along this one which Wallace Beery told the other evening. It involved Emil Jannings, one of the finest character actors Germany ever sent to this country. One day Beery (after tipping off his studio pals) walked to Jannings's dressing room and rapped on the door, then groaned loudly and sank to the steps. When Emil opened the door, there lay Beery glassy eyed, apparently dying.

"Mein Gott!" screamed Jannings, and fell to his knees and commenced working frantically over the fallen body. A ring of men soon surrounded them, and presently Emil glanced up into a dozen grinning faces. Jannings dropped Beery's head ("It hit with the door, then groaned loudly and sank to the steps. When Emil opened the door, there lay Beery glassy eyed, apparently dying.

RELIC OF DAYS OF PROHIBITION FOUND

Possibly a throw-back to the early history of "Barnacle Bill, the Sailor," but at least a throw-back to days of prohibition a pint bottle of bourbon whiskey with but a "swallow" gone from it, and with its sides covered with barnacles, was found along the sands of Sunset Beach, turned over to H. E. MacKenzie, liquor control officer for this district, who, in turn, presented the oddity to Police Chief Floyd Howard to put on display at police headquarters.

It is believed the bottle of whiskey went to the bottom of the sea from six to 10 years ago, either when a "rum runner's" boat capsized as he sought to beach some contraband or when he jumped the contraband while being chased by Uncle Sam's internal revenue men. Strangely, about two ounces of the whiskey had disappeared from the still-tightly-sealed, labelless bottle. Where the two ounces went, no one knows but the remainder of the whiskey is undiluted with salt water.

BREA PLANS FOR ANNUAL CARNIVAL

BREA, Oct. 26.—Plans are practically complete for the annual carnival and gala event which is being held at the Brea grammar school tomorrow night, preparations for which have required much time and work on the part of pupils and teachers of the school. The carnival is being sponsored by the Brea unit of P.-T. A., a committee of which is serving a dinner and conducting sales of refreshments at booths that evening.

The entire community is invited to attend the carnival, proceeds from which will go into a students' fund. Two objectives for the year are the purchase of a loud-speaking system and robes for the grammar school a capella choir.

Rain does not clear the air of impurities, according to tests in 14 industrial cities by the U. S. Public Health Service.

a thump that hurt." Wally told me, fled to his dressing room, and refused to work throughout the day.

WRITING —TO SELL—

By ETHEL K. LOCKWOOD

THOSE IMPORTANT "LITTLE THINGS"

Do not use simplified spelling in your manuscripts, Mr. Beginner. The time may come when we will use simplified spelling exclusively, but that time is not here yet, and a manuscript in which part of the words appear in abbreviated style, is difficult to read. There is a tendency to halt at one of these phonetically spelled words, and you do not want to do ANYTHING to halt the reader, once he has started to read your story. It is hard enough to catch his interest in the first place; it is hard enough to hold it, without distracting his attention with a freakishly-spelled word.

The Mission of Punctuation
We punctuate to make a manuscript more readable. That is the only possible reason. If we do not have enough punctuation marks, the message becomes blurred. If we have too many, it becomes choppy. There is a trick to knowing just how much punctuation to use, but you will fall into the system easily if you keep in mind this one thing: punctuation is used only to make material more readable.

Typing the First Page
Your first page should contain your name and address in the upper left-hand corner; the approximate word count in the upper right; the title of your story, together with the name you wish printed with it, in the center of the page about half way down. Leave four or five single spaces between the title and the opening of your story. On the second page, type the number at the upper right-hand corner, and go on with the story. Do not put your name on each page. If the editor had to reach each author's name on fifteen to fifty pages of manuscript, he would probably be pretty peevish by the time he got through.

The Right Way to Mail
Mail your manuscripts flat, or with a single fold, in tough manuscript mailing envelopes of the right size for one envelope to slip inside of the other. Have your manuscript weighed, and affix sufficient postage to the inside envelope to bring the manuscript back to you. Address the return manuscript to yourself, and be sure your outer envelope is correctly addressed to the editor of the magazine to which you are sending your material. (It is not at all necessary to know the editor's name.)

Mailing Photographs
If you are sending out photographs with an article, type the caption of each photograph on a slip of paper, with your name, address, and the title of the article, and paste this slip of paper on the lower edge of the BACK of your photograph, with the typing facing front. You can then fold the paper up over the photograph, which gives it a neat appearance, and acts as additional protection to the photograph. Do not write on the back of your photographs, and do not attach any memorandum to a photograph with a clip or pin. Keep these details in mind, but do not allow them to monopolize your efforts at writing. You are not going to get a manuscript back because of a mis-placed noun, or an erratic period. If you have an IDEA worth buying, and you have it in any sort of readable shape, the editor won't mind juggling a few adjectives, and slapping them in their right places.

Don't be finicky about your writing. You can waste too much time that way. But in the important details, see that you use your head. That goes for LIFE, come to think of it!

We all agree on this... cigarette paper is important. For Chesterfield we use the best paper that we can buy. It is called Champagne Cigarette Paper. It is made from the soft, silky fibre of the flax plant. It is washed over and over in clear, sparkling water.

A lot of the pleasure you get in smoking Chesterfields is due to our using the right kind of cigarette paper. Chesterfield paper is pure, and it burns without taste or odor.

California Farm Industry Has Record Season

PRICE BOOSTS OFFSET DROPS IN PRODUCTION

The past farming season in California, on the whole, has been the most successful in many years according to information received by the First National Bank in Santa Ana.

Moderate decreases in production were more than offset by price increases occasioned by crop shortages elsewhere, resulting in an estimated 20 per cent or more increase over last year's crop. September and early October were unusually hot and dry, favorable to the completion of harvest of beans, peaches, sugar beets and dried fruits, but unfavorable to preparation of the soil for winter planting, and to livestock pasturage; seasonal rainfall is decidedly below normal and there have been many forest fires.

The poultry and egg business during the 1935-36 marketing season totaling more than $20,000,000, brought returns 36 per cent higher than in the previous season. In the line industry, it is reported that even grapes are available than were last year, and the new crop produced this year will be at least half as large as the 1935 vintage; storage stocks are lower than a year ago, and demand in both eastern and local markets is both increasing.

General business activity during July and August reached over 98 per cent of the 1923-25 average level, as measured by the bank's index, graphed above. It receded only slightly during September, as the result of a sharp decline in bank deposits, not quite offset by a small increase in industrial production, with department-store sales and freight carloadings holding even. The September index, tentatively calculated at 97.7, compares with 98.4 in August, 98.7 in July and 94.5 in September last year; and it was the highest September figure since 1930.

SHOW METEOR AT S. J. MUSEUM

Found half a mile southeast of Hewes Park on a ranch operated by J. A. Dowell, of 722 South Van Ness, a "star" that fell from "Heaven" is on display today at the Bowers Memorial museum.

According to Dowell and to N. H. Hilton, assayer here, the "star" is a meteorite known as "siderite," composed chiefly of metal—largely nickel—and might be valuable if one could extract the nickel. But Hilton took a sharp instrument and tried to penetrate the surface of the "star" without success. He gave up in disgust.

The little piece of "star dust" must have fallen a long time ago. Dowell doesn't know how long ago and neither does anyone else. Anyhow it fell. It is two and a half inches to three inches in circumference, two inches thick and, believe it or not, weighs six pounds seven ounces. Dowell appeared at the museum and presented it for display to Mrs. F. E. Coulter, curator. The "shooting star," which Dowell found several inches below the surface of the ground while he was using a tractor in plowing on the ranch, in 1933, is a "piker" compared with the one Dowell saw recently at the Los Angeles museum on the University of Southern California campus in Los Angeles. That one, Dowell reported, resembles greatly, the ham of an ordinary porker, in size and shape. And it weighs 308 pounds!

J. C. STUDENTS CLOSE TRAFFIC SIGNAL DRIVE

Santa Ana Junior college students Saturday ended their third week of campaigning for the erection of traffic signals at the student crossing at Tenth and Main streets, with the circulation of petitions demanding action.

Students were yesterday urged by Student President, Vic Rowland, to sign the petitions. Through the columns of the college newspaper, El Don, it was announced that Frank A. Henderson, superintendent of school, had written to the state highway commission appealing for aid. It was pointed out that the city council had been petitioned by the superintendent three months ago, but no action had been taken until a month ago. President Rowland indicated that the difficulty lay in the fact that the local council cannot take action since Main street is under state and not local supervision.

Superintendent Henderson was quoted in El Don as saying, "Sooner or later, because north and south vehicular traffic on Main street is very heavy, injuries are certain to be suffered. He also emphasized the heavy student traffic at the crossing during the day.

After signatures have been obtained for the petitions, they will be presented to the city council for action. The students feel that they are acting with the Traffic Safety Service, Inc. in their safety campaign against accidents. Because of lack of funds, 50 crossing guards have been released recently.

The streets of Santa Ana will be decorated several days in advance of Armistice Day and a holiday spirit is expected to grip the city long before the parade starts.

The Kraft Carnival is expected to arrive here the latter part of this week and will remain for two weeks, ending their engagement the Saturday and Sunday following Armistice Day.

Plans for the grand ball to be held at the Legion hall on the night of Armistice Day are being rushed and it is expected to be one of the leading attractions of the all day celebration.

Appointments
Of Party Are Very Colorful

Autumn's richness of coloring was exemplified charmingly Saturday afternoon in the A. N. Zerman home, 505 South Sycamore street, where Mrs. Zerman continued the series of bridge luncheons introduced earlier in the season. Flowers were everywhere, with dahlias and chrysanthemums massed as a background for the players, and each linen spread luncheon table gay with its small silver bud vase of asters and purple sage. Asters in rose and mauve tones were blended with sprays of sage in clusters laid at the plates with the combined plate and tully cards.

Many of the blossoms came from Mrs. Zerman's own garden, but others were sent by friends including Mrs. Alvin Nowotny, Mrs. Clyde Walker and Mrs. J. N. Bartholomew.

Friendly Aid

Mrs. Nowotny and Mrs. P. N. Chapin aided in hostess duties, checking arrivals, serving the tempting luncheon courses, and later collecting the tully cards when the after-luncheon session of contract was concluded.

Mrs. Zerman continued the vivid color scheme of the party with her bridge prizes, giving a handled waffle bowl, small jars and similar pieces of pottery in bright rich colors. Mrs. Paul Ragan led among the players, and received first prize, with Mrs. Nowotny and Mrs. Theo A. Winbiger scoring second and third high, and Mrs. Franklin G. West receiving consolation prize.

Several out of town guests were on Mrs. Zerman's invitation list including Mrs. H. C. Dawes of Los Angeles, formerly of this city; Mrs. Lewis F. Moulton of El Toro; Mrs. Nelson T. Edwards, Mrs. Charles Swanner, Mrs. Elmer Hayward, Mrs. Alfred Higgins and Mrs. Oscar J. Johnson of Orange; Mrs. W. D. Grafton of Anaheim, and Mrs. Rola Hays of Balboa Island.

Country Club Imbued With Spirit Of '49

Who's who in this picture? Just a group of merry-makers at Santa Ana Country club Saturday night when a forty-niner party was staged as a feature of a monthly dance. The sheriff (the one with the big black mustache) was there, with his wife and daughters, too. There were musicians, gay seniors and any number of wild and woolly westerners to join in the fun.

Bon Voyage Luncheon
Is Compliment to
Mrs. Reinhaus

Bon voyage was expressed most pleasantly to Mrs. Stanley Reinhaus Friday when Mrs. Eugene Robinson made her the incentive for a gay little luncheon in the pretty new home at 2103 North Flower street, of which the Robinsons so recently took possession.

Mr. and Mrs. Reinhaus are sailing tomorrow night on the S.S. Pennsylvania for New York city, and Friday's guests were happy to be able to express their interest in travel plans through Mrs. Robinson's hospitality.

The hostess had arranged her luncheon table with Irish lace doilies, through which the polished mahogany gleamed. Frouped with stiff formality were three Colonial bouquets in which roses, sweet peas and ranunculus blossoms were mingled with Queen Anne's lace, and circled with silver leaves.

The whole effect was in harmony with the Duncan Phyfe table and the early American atmosphere of the home.

Guests busied themselves with needlework during the afternoon's chat of travels, especially those upon which the honoree so soon will embark. Music too was an attraction, and Mrs. Howard sang a succession of favorite songs with Mrs. Couden as accompanist.

In the party with Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. Reinhaus were Mrs. Max Reinhaus, Mrs. Maurice Enderle, Miss Louise Tubbs, Mrs. Robert Steinberger, Mrs. H. J. Howard, Mrs. Zoe Mitchell and Mrs. Richard Couden.

Third Travel Section
Has Program on Russia

Ebelt Third Travel section members entertained their husbands and other guests at an annual evening program held Friday in the clubhouse lounge. Mrs. S. A. Moore, leader, and Mrs. F. P. Nickey, junior past leader, formed the reception committee.

Russia was the theme for the program, which opened with vocal solos by Bruce Buell, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. L. L. Buell. Mrs. John Tessmann gave a talk on "Early History of Russia," beginning in the year 1862 and tracing events up to the present day. She pointed out that art and literature were given an impetus in Russia under the reign of Catherine the Great.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Nickey, Mrs. C. A. Westgate and Miss Preble Drake.

HALLOWEEN PARTY

Miss Hortense Taylor was named refreshment chairman, and Miss Genevieve Varday, entertainment chairman for the party.

Miss Cecelia Telef, president, was in charge of the business meeting, during which reports were given on the success of a recent food sale.

Mrs. Thomas Giesler, president of Senior Y. L. I. provided refreshments which were served at the evening's close. Other guests were Mrs. Ethelbert Johnson and Mrs. J. Engelman.

Royal Neighbors

Witch figures and other symbols of the season were included in Halloween decorations in the home of Mrs. Herbert Birt, 2210 Maple street, Thursday afternoon for a meeting of Magnolia circle. R. N. A. Mrs. Birt, Miss Lucille Stocker and Mrs. Clara Blackwell were hostesses.

Others present were Mesdames Mary Arnold, Chester Gross, H. W. Kimball, May Lagasse, A. G. Lavery, Mary Schlamman, Chester Scott, Charles Tibbets, T. L. Warren, John Zimmerman and Rosa Hall.

The next meeting will be held November 19 in the home of Mrs. Gross.

Colorful California Era
Re-Lived At Country Club

Shades of the covered wagon! Of ox teams plodding slowly across the plains. Of swaying barouches in which Spanish senoritas were drawn by prancing ponies. Of wiry little cow ponies standing with bridle reins trailing on the ground. For if these phases of the Days of '49 were not in actual evidence Saturday night in the vicinity of Santa Ana Country club, they were suggested by the motley crew that danced and made merry at the big annual Halloween frolic of the year.

It has come to be an established custom that the October dancing party at the clubhouse shall be a fancy dress affair. Sometimes it is masquerade pure and simple. But for this merry affair of Saturday night, the invitation cards stipulated the "Days of '49."

This offered wide latitude to the members in their plans for appropriate costumes, and only a few appeared in the conventional attire of the present. Such characters as made history in one of the most colorful eras of California, mingled in the figures of the dance. Each new group of arrivals was greeted with merriment, and parson and dance hall girl, trapper and graceful senorita, booted cowboy and plainswoman, soon were yielding themselves to the enchantment of Lacey Swann's orchestra music.

Such rousing tunes as "O Susannah" and others of the period alternated with intriguing dance rhythms of the present, and occasionally the orchestra yielded place to a clever "one man band," with T. B. Talbert as the musician. In his plainsman attire, his manipulation of fiddle and mouth-organ at the same time, was one of the evening's highlights. Occasionally he was joined by Mrs. Carl Mock, whose skill with the harmonica was matched by the cleverness of her checked gingham dress, "toothpick" shoes and lace-trimmed pantalettes.

S. B. Kaufman was a Spanish grangee, with Mrs. Kaufman in equally striking Spanish attire. Many of the feminine guests chose the alluring lace mantillas, full Spanish combs and flaring ruffled silks of the period. Mrs. Frank Drumm wore a brilliant shawl caught with flowers over her tattered ruffles. Mrs. Hugh Shields was in bright red; Mrs. C. V. Davis in flaring white silk with scarlet flowers; Mrs. Bert Castex in the full skirt and peasant embroidered bodice of the Mexican folk-dancer.

Daniel Boone himself stalked about in slashed deer skin suit, carrying the pelts of his trapping activities. This was Jerry Miller and Mrs. Miller was a charming pioneer wife in rose print with snug bodice and full gathered skirt. The only Indian to attempt companionship with the palefaces, was Nat Neff, very convincing in his role. Mrs. Neff in pink with wide brimmed hat, was one of the many dance hall girls.

Mrs. Riley Huber in ivory silk with Spanish shawl, was another as was Mrs. LaMont McFadden in short black velvet frock with gold lace ruffles and the wildest lace stockings imaginable. A convincing family group was that sturdy plainsman, Sheriff A. G. Flagg, with his sweeping mustache, wide brimmed hat, flamboyant vest with jingling fobs, and trousers tucked into the squeaking boots in history, accompanied by Mrs. Flagg and their daughter, Miss Jimmie Flagg. Mrs. Flagg's full skirt of blue and white print was gathered into fitted bodice and was completed with small shoulder cape and an authentic sunbonnet of the period. Miss Flagg was very elegant indeed in all the loopings, ruffles and puffings of the era, with bustle, lace mitts, demure bonnet and all.

Mrs. J. K. Hegmon's graceful red taffeta frock with poke bonnet to match, had an interesting history. It was a costume of the period, authentic in all details, lent her by a Hollywood friend, and is to be used in a picture soon to be in production.

Others present were Mesdames Mary Arnold, Chester Gross, H. W. Kimball, May Lagasse, A. G. Lavery, Mary Schlamman, Chester Scott, Charles Tibbets, T. L. Warren, John Zimmerman and Rosa Hall.

The next meeting will be held November 19 in the home of Mrs. Gross.

Robertson-Smith Rites
Occur at Chapel's
Outdoor Altar

Wedded at a pretty ceremony Saturday evening at Santa Ana Wedding chapel, Miss Jean L. Smith, daughter of Mel Smith of this city, and Thomas Robertson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Robertson of Santa Ana have gone to Monrovia to make their home.

The bridegroom and bride were one of the first couples to exchange vows in the attractive setting provided by the chapel's new outdoor shrine in the patio. Trellises in the background were surrounded with potted ferns and dozens of begonias. Laid over the flagstone floor was a white rug on which the couple paced their way to the altar. Tapers gleamed in hanging candelabra suspended from the ceiling of lattice work and greenery.

Nine o'clock was the hour for the ceremony read by the Rev. H. W. Meyer, pastor of St. Peter Lutheran church. Mrs. Raymond Warren was at the piano for several sections.

The bride wore a navy blue costume trimmed in white, with a corsage bouquet of Tailsman roses. Her maid of honor, Miss Louise Smith of Brea was in blue with a corsage cluster of pink roses. Glenn Young of Artesia was best man.

Following the wedding was a reception in the home of the bride's parents. White chrysanthemums centering the table were lighted with tapers in silver holders. Wedding cake, ice cream and other dainties were served.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Robertson attended Santa Ana high school and junior college. Mr. Robertson is opening a dental laboratory in Monrovia.

Hosts Arrange Gala
Setting
For Halloween Event

Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Hoover were hosts Saturday night at a Halloween party in their home at 803 Lowell street. Guests came in costume, so that the evening reached its climax with the unmasking of the merry group of friends.

Typical Halloween games and stunts were enjoyed in the living room in which the chairs and davenport were draped with sheets. Walls were lined with cornstalks, golden rod, and shrubs that cast eerie shadows, with ghosts and skeletons peeking from behind bright orange lights all through the rooms. Serpentine and noise-making favors were distributed, and as the mystic hour of midnight approached refreshments of sandwiches, coffee, pumpkin pie, cake and candies were served buffet style.

Guests of the hosts and their three children, Edward Jr., Shirley and Barbara, were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kleinke, Long Beach; Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Jacobsen and Master Paul Nielsen, San Pedro; Mrs. Marie Joyce and Vernon Joyce, San Diego; R. Russell, Los Angeles; the Misses Jo Jacobsen and Valentine Smith, Messrs. and Mesdames W. L. McHolland, George Smith, Hollywood; Miss Betty Stork, Miss B. Party in Orange Given
For Fiancee
Of Hostess' Grandson

Presiding at a linen shower Friday night in her home, 335 East Chapman avenue, Orange, Mrs. M. O. Ainsworth paid a pretty compliment to her granddaughter-to-be, Miss Jeanette Lewis of this city, whose marriage to Dwight Ainsworth will take place November 7.

The hostess had arranged a pretty setting for the event, decorating her home with bouquets of chrysanthemums in autumn shades, with yellow and bronze-toned blossoms predominating.

Several games were introduced, with prizes going to Mrs. William Whitehead of Irvine and the honoree, Miss Lewis. In addition, the bride-elect received a lovely assortment of linens from the 25 guests assembled. Relatives and close friends of the two families were brought together for the event.

Napkins and nut cups of bridal design appointed individual trays late in the evening when Mrs. Ainsworth served a tempting salad course. She was assisted by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Jesse Ainsworth, mother of the bridegroom-to-be.

SCRIBE ON SPOT; TELLS HOW CLUB GOT ITS NAME

By GEORGE E. HART

I understand that some of the Quien Sabe Club members, talking over the kick-off of their winter dancing schedule next Wednesday night, thought that something ought to be done about the person who would give the club the kind of a name it's got.

"That guy, Hart, huh?" one of them growled, rubbing his knuckles suggestively. "Well, the least we ought to do is make him confess. I mean, that's the least."

ORANGE PARK PROJECT SENT FOR APPROVAL

ORANGE, Oct. 26.—Plans for the proposed comfort station to be placed in the center of the plaza were sent to WPA headquarters at San Diego this morning. The proposed comfort station would be an octagonal building which would replace the fountain. It would provide quarters for a hand stand above the station which would extend four feet below the ground, four feet above. The building would be about 21 feet across.

The proposal to replace the fountain with the station has been the cause of the filing of a number of petitions with the city clerk, T. H. Elijah, protesting the action. Two petitions containing 75 names have been filed and four more petitions are being circulated.

A similar proposal made in 1922 was defeated by public opinion.

Accused of being a "peeping Tom" by J. F. Jacoby, 125 East Pomona, who shot at and captured him, Tony Rodriguez, 13, 1905 Oak street, was jailed early Sunday morning on a charge of vagrancy.

"I have just captured a man who has been prowling about my home and peeping in the windows," Jacoby informed police by telephone about 1:30 a. m. "You may come and get him." The man was Rodriguez, who gave himself up when Jacoby shot at him. Officers F. L. Grouard and Burnette Lane jailed Rodriguez.

Brain Twizzlers

By Prof. J. D. Flint

Even in the days of six guns, saddles and spurs Twizzlers propounded perplexing problems.

Of Man Perkins had a big ranch out west on which he raised large herds of stock. He often wondered about the right number of head to feed on each section of his ranch and one day while talking it over with his foreman he said, "That ten-acre field will feed a dozen head for sixteen weeks or eighteen head for eight weeks. How many could I feed on a forty-acre field for six weeks with the grass growing regularly all the time?"

If you were called upon to answer the problem what would your answer be?

Answer to Saturday's Twizzler

The Professor was wrong because the line, no matter how many times the zig-zag steps are made smaller, is the same length. If the line did become perfectly straight it would, of course, be much shorter than the two sides of the triangle.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

DUTCH LEADER OF SOCIAL REFORM

THE movement for more democratic government was spreading through Europe late in the 19th century. In Holland, Dr. H. J. A. M. Schaeppman, renowned Roman Catholic priest, had been striving for social reforms, not only among his own communicants, but among all the people of the Netherlands.

This great priest, who was born in 1844, was famous as a poet and philosopher. His prose writings were as masterful as his poetry, and his political broadsides struck home forcibly. In 1887, he supported the liberal revision of the country's constitution.

Then he brought about a coalition between Roman Catholics and Protestants, by which a more united fight could be made for social reform. As a result, in 1901, the coalition caused adoption of social legislation for compulsory insurance against illness, disability, and old age.

That great popular reform marked the height of Dr. Schaeppman's efforts. He died in 1903, at the age of 59. In 1936, the Netherlands issued a stamp portraying the man.

HALLOWE'EN IS BACKGROUND FOR YORBA LINDA CARNIVAL

YORBA LINDA, Oct. 26.—Pioneer costuming and reproductions of covered wagons in full and miniature size, with stage coaches, combined with a program revealing stunt horsemanship and rope throwing provided a most successful "Forty-Niner" picnic for the community of Yorba Linda Saturday. This annual event is held for the purpose of raising funds for the work of the Parent-Teacher association.

The carnival opened Saturday with a parade of the school children in which they competed for costume prizes. Prizes also were given for the booths on the school grounds, and for the games throughout the entertainment. A dinner was served at 6:30 p.m. under the general chairmanship of Mrs. Mary Sparks. An orchestra composed of Bill Willford, Elmer Willford, and Charles Pryor, provided the music during dinner.

The money raised from this entertainment will be used in the work of giving each of the room groups of the Yorba Linda school a trip this winter, and in supplying lunches to some children.

SALUTE TO Love

BEGIN HERE TODAY KATE AND CAROLINE NEED live on a farm, Meed Meadows, with their lovable and indolent grandfather, MAJOR SAM MEED, and two old Negro servants, ALTHEA and ZERKE. Kate is engaged to handsome MORRIS, a rich fellow who neglects her for EVE ELWELL, beautiful and wealthy.

Major Meed loves Meed Meadows to JEFF HOBARD, a bitter young man who has been in the hands of Kate. He treats her badly and she responds with insolence, though he tries to win her back. He is a near-by tenant house, Kate learns that her family buried a valuable silver service during the Civil War. She broods over this news and persuades Althea and Zerke to accompany her to Meed Meadows one night, where they dig for the silver.

Jeff shoots to frighten them, and wounds Kate slightly in the shoulder. He does not know this until he has the silver. He is a bloody hand. Jeff fights his growing love for the girl. He returns to her and she is not badly hurt. Kate is not badly hurt.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVII

KATE recovered from the shoulder wound. "But you're going to have an ugly little scar there," Caroline pointed out. "The doctor might have prevented that."

Kate said, "I know it's not ethical to be your own surgeon. I reckon I deserve the scar. But I couldn't bear for Doctor Grace to know what a fool I'd been. Besides, I saved the price of his visit. That means my $10 bill is velvet."

"You need a pair of shoes," Caroline suggested. "And you could do with a new hat. We could both use stockings."

"We'll manage to get the stockings," Kate answered. "From next week's egg money. But that's all that's going to be wasted on clothes. We're going to have a party!"

Caroline was agast. Kate had made the money by selling a pile of old "Godey's Ladies' Books" that had been stored in the attic at Meed Meadows and discovered at the time of their move. "Are you delirious again, Kate?" Caroline demanded.

"I don't see why the desire for a party points to delirium. We're indebted to everybody, but that's not the only reason I want a party. We've got to show people we still enjoy being alive. We've got to show them our misfortune hasn't gotten us down."

"Very commendable," Caroline answered, smoothing the counterpane on the bed she was making. "—And the third reason, darling? The real reason for wanting to throw a party when we're stoney broke?"

Kate blushed. "I often wish you were a fool, Caroline. . . . The real reason is Morgan, of course. I haven't been blind to the way things are. He's rushing live in the good old family-friend, big-brother guise. I've too much pride to call him up and ask for a date, but I've a feeling that if we could be thrown together for a few carefree hours, things would be all right with us again. "It makes sense," Caroline admitted. Then, thoughtfully, "But we'd have to ask a lot of people. How'd we do it on $10?"

"WE could do it," explained Kate, talking rapidly, "because I've got a trump up my sleeve. A hay ride! Our team to the big wagon, and Mr. Grayson's team and wagon. We'd make his lake the destination, and we'd cook hamburger steaks and coffee on grills!"

"I see," Caroline said. "Who's to ask Mr. Grayson by the way?" "You," answered Kate rather contritely. Mr. Grayson was a kindly, prosperous widower of 50 who admired Caroline excessively.

Caroline looked out of the window. Presently she said unhappily, "I could swing it for you, of course. But don't you think that's asking rather a lot of me, Kate? We'd have to ask Mr. Grayson to drive his own team. I'd have to sit beside him. I'd have to stick by him all evening. "Kate weighed the matter, and guess you would," she admitted. Suddenly she hated herself for the smug little scheme.

But Caroline would not forget it. She became keen to make the sacrifice, now that she had thought it over. To prove this to Kate, she saddled her horse and rode over to the Grayson place at once to make the arrangements. . . . Thus the party got under way, speedily and impulsively.

Caroline asked Morgan first. She and Kate had decided that if he could not come on the night set, they would set a night when he could. It must be done casually, she agreed, so that he would not suspect his importance. But no changes were necessary. He seemed to find the invitation intriguing.

THE night chosen for the hay ride was to have a full moon. Caroline, who had become almost as enthusiastic as Kate, declared, "We don't care how hot it is. It'll be gorgeous on top of a moving hay wagon!"

After it has been fair weather for a week, one somehow forgets gathered on the afternoon of the eventful day. No one gave them serious attention. Just trailing wisps, they seemed to be, that lessened the blazing sun's heat for intermittent moments. It was not until 5 o'clock that Kate said, "Those clouds look nasty, Caroline. I don't like the way they're getting together—" It did not begin actually to sprinkle until the last guests had arrived. The little house seemed to bulge with people. Caroline cheerfully recalled the saying about a crowded house insuring a good time, and hoped for the best.

Mr. Grayson came in from the barn, looking embarrassed yet pleased to be there. He attached himself to Caroline, so that she could not forget him, even for a moment. Indeed there was nothing else for the poor man to do. Kate saw that the crowd regarded him as a tiresome old bore and wondered what he was doing there.

NAME CAST FOR STUDENTS' PLAY

GARDEN GROVE, Oct. 26.—Orval Chandler has been chosen to take the part of Willie Barton in "The Nut Farm," the Junior class play to be presented at the high school auditorium on November 24. Willie is a keen, sharp-witted youth, who is rather a thorn in the side of his family who do not understand his brand of humor.

Mrs. Barton, a good natured, motherly woman, will be played by Eloise Humphrey. Irma Waters will be Helen Brent, a pretty girl who is given to cussing at times. The part of Bob Brent, Helen's husband, is to be portrayed by Edwin Moore.

Agatha Silscomb, a pretty college type of girl, will be played by Ellen Jane Jordan. The villain of the play, Hamilton T. Holland, will be taken by Bob Stronge. The humorous part of J. Clarence Biddford will be played by Raymond Holt.

The typical leading man of the movies, Harold Van Horton, is to be Harold Mutz. The part of Ezra Eliscomb, a retired Iowa farmer, has been given to Joseph Allen and Elinor Clemons is to be the maid and the prompter.

Committees and ushers are to be announced later by Mrs. Eleanor Casady, director of the play.

REPUDIATION

The repudiation by the New Dealers of the Democratic party in Minnesota brings up the question as to what other things of importance have the New Dealers repudiated?

They have certainly repudiated their 1932 platform.

By their attempted legislation of the NRA, the AAA and the Guffey Coal Bill, they have attempted to repudiate the Supreme Court.

They have repudiated the contract to pay the government's obligations in gold as agreed. In Minnesota, their repudiation practically means the endorsement of a socialistic system. The Farmer-Labor party that they endorsed at the President's consent has a program for "nationalization" (cunning verbal camouflage for "liquidating" and "Communizing") of all the basic industries of the country in one giant bureaucratic monopoly patterned after the one-eyed octopus.

They have repudiated the fundamental principle of Thomas Jefferson of State Rights.

THE FORGOTTEN PEDESTRIAN

So much attention has been concentrated of late on making city streets safe that it comes with a shock to learn that, last year, upward of 15,000 people were killed on country roads.

For the first time in automotive history, according to a New York insurance company, more rural pedestrians were killed than died in city traffic accidents.

Perhaps city drivers are responsible in part for this alarming development. Inhabited within city limits by stop lights and stringent traffic regulations, they are apt to breathe a vast sigh of relief and throw caution to the winds on hitting the open country road. And the improved highways that criss-cross the open spaces make no allowances for safety of the rural pedestrian. One highway expert suggests that sidewalks be provided along such roads.

Whatever is done, it is a problem that demands urgent attention.

NONE OF OUR CONCERN

It is just a little bit hard to see why so much fuss should be made these days over the fact that King Edward VIII enjoys the company of the American-born Mrs. Ernest Simpson.

King Edward is not the first monarch, in the long history of royalty, who has lingered in the presence of a fair commoner. Indeed, his father, the late King George, was one of the very few who did not.

If you care to put the very worst interpretation possible on the friendship—and you might remember that there is nothing at all in the record to justify such interpretation—the king is doing no more than living up to royal tradition.

But, in any case, royal tradition or no royal tradition, London is a long way from here, and what the king of England may do in his spare time is not really much concern of ours. The atmosphere would be a good deal healthier if we would permit Mr. Simpson and the British public to do whatever worrying has to be done.

SOUTHERN JUSTICE

Some residents of the north are fond of saying that the Negro can never get even the shadow of justice in southern courts. They should take a look at a little case recently concluded by the Arkansas supreme court.

A white man was arrested for stealing two hogs from a colored man. He was tried in Arkansas before a white jury, with the Negro as the principal witness against him. The white jury convicted him and a white judge sentenced him to a year in prison.

The defendant took the case to the Arkansas supreme court; and it has just upheld conviction and sentence, remarking pointedly that the federal constitution gives the Negro full rights of citizenship, that a white jury believed the Negro's story, and that the convicted man deserved what he got.

Now this is the sort of thing which, according to some northern critics, just couldn't happen in a southern court. But it did happen—and one suspects that it happens much more often than northern critics are willing to believe.

TAXING FRUITS OF COURAGE

The reason there are so many people who believe income should be taxed is that certain kinds of income should be taxed; but, because of this fact, there is no reason why other kinds of income should be taxed. The income which should be taxed is the income resulting from unearned increment. Further, we can see no reason why income resulting from lending money should not be taxed.

But on the other hand, to tax income resulting from courage in enterprise, running risks of losing one's time, energy and savings is an entirely different matter. The man who does this and produces wealth makes it possible to reduce the cost of living for every citizen and raises the real wages of all workers. For this reason, there should be no tax on the fruits of courage. The government is giving nothing in return and is taking it only as a quick and easy way of getting income because the great majority of people have not thought through the evil effects in after years of the reduced capital resulting from taxing the fruits of courage.

That part of income which should be taxed, such as unearned increment, costs the government a great deal to defend the rights on this kind of income. It creates ill feeling and discourages hard work, thrift and courage.

A tax on income resulting from lending money is justified also on the grounds that the recipient of same wants the benefits and protection of society without having the courage to take the principal risk in the enterprise. In addition to this, large amounts of debts that can be suddenly contracted make it extremely difficult for a government to maintain a money system that has relatively uniform purchasing power. For this reason, taxes can be levied on income resulting from lending money because of the inconvenience the money-lender causes society.

On the other hand, the man who courageously risks his energy and savings in new production does not cause society any inconvenience but greatly adds to the living standards of society and the new production by paying property tax helps support the government and for this reason, should pay no income tax because the government gives nothing in return. The income tax only makes it impossible for the courageous individual to serve humanity and the government to his full capacity.

Until we get this distinction in the kind of income that should be taxed, the harm that an income tax does is infinitely greater than the benefits the people and society receive from the small tax it receives from unearned increment and from the income on the lending of money. In fact, under the present system, where government bonds are exempt from income tax, the great part of the income tax that should be paid is free from taxation.

If the people will give the question of income tax some thought and analyze its good points and its bad points, a taxing system could be evolved that would not be arbitrary and would be based on costs to both the government and the individual so that they would both be mutually benefited. There never has been a tax system in operation, so far as we can learn, which has not been more or less arbitrary and discriminatory. We believe that the proper definition of what real income is or the eliminating of that part of income which is reinvested and taxing the other part, would make the ideal taxing system.

HUMAN RIGHTS VS. PROPERTY RIGHTS

In this campaign much has been said about human rights (being paramount to) property rights. If property had any rights, this statement would be true. It is a catch phrase which fools many people. No property has any rights whatever and never did have. It is, in reality, a controversy between different people as to who should have the rights in property. As our society becomes more complicated, human rights in property becomes more and more limited and restricted.

Certain kinds of services, such as broadcasting, transportation, telephones, gas are of a nature more economically served by one distributor than by a group, provided these distributors can be properly regulated. For this reason, human rights in these services are very much limited.

Another reason why human rights in property become more and more a question of limitation is that as communication becomes more efficient every group is obliged to compete with other groups. For this reason it becomes imperative that there be more or less cooperation; that no individual has unlimited rights to appropriate to his own personal use a large amount of wealth for which he gets very little in return. This therefore limits his rights in property. We have recognized this fact in a way. We have not however as yet formulated any practical way of limiting human rights in property as to excessive destruction. We believe that eventually society must work out a method of not arbitrarily but intelligently limiting human rights in property.

Under our present system, we limit by inheritance, income tax, gift tax, the amount of property a man may own but after he has acquired it, we give him carte blanc authority to do with it as he pleases.

We believe this condition should be changed. Those who have been reading The Register's editorial columns know how we believe this limiting should be brought about.

SACRIFICING DEMOCRATIC PARTY

As Frank Kent says, "There are plenty of different reasons for supporting Mr. Roosevelt but because he is labeled a Democrat on the ballot is not one of them."

It is interesting to note the comment upon the action of Mr. Roosevelt endorsing the Farmer-Labor outfit in Minnesota made by the Lynchburg News, of which Senator Carter Glass, a leading Democrat, is publisher: "If Democrats in one state are to destroy their party in the interests of another party, way appeal effectively to the party loyalty of Democrats elsewhere? If a whole party can be sacrificed in one state to help another party, where is the consistency of charging Democrats elsewhere with disloyalty when they walk out? Are individual Democrats here and there to be condemned for doing less than the whole high command has done in another place? The answer is that they cannot be condemned with any consistency of effectiveness."

WHITE-COLLAR WORKERS

Those who are in charge of giving public work to those who cannot find private jobs realize that there is great difficulty in finding work for the group called the white-collared men.

This leads to the question as to why there should be any discrimination between workers who are given jobs by the government. If the government is obliged to create a job on which it loses money, why should not all so employed be on the same basis?

It is a natural sequence that follows when wages are arbitrary and prices are not a guide as to what kind of work the workers should be willing to pursue.

The Campaign Goes Into The Last Stretch

Day By Day In Washington

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1936)

BALTIMORE, Oct. 26.—An assured state for President Roosevelt, the indicated majority for Mr. Roosevelt is about 27,000. If one applies 54 per cent as the percentage for Mr. Landan in the rural counties of Maryland, on the assumption that the rural counties here would be about the same as they are in other border states, like Missouri, it still gives Mr. Roosevelt about a 75,000 majority in Maryland. This, incidentally, it what a private estimate, made by disinterested sources, gives as the Maryland majority for President Roosevelt.

If the Sun poll is taken at face value, the Roosevelt majority in Maryland would be about 144,000, which is 10,000 more than Mr. Roosevelt had four years ago. Such a circumstance warrants investigation because it would be the second state on my journey where a majority larger than 1932 came to the fore as a possibility. The other case was California, which I visited early in August and which since then has shown signs of greatly reducing the majority originally indicated.

The Baltimore Sun poll was honestly and fairly conducted. The Sun itself had declared editorially that it could not support Mr. Roosevelt for re-election, so there was no chance of any accusation of bias in managing the poll itself.

But there are certain factors over which the Sun had no control and which must be taken into consideration in weighing the merits of the canvass. First of all, the poll was announced several weeks in advance of the mailing of ballots. The New Deal machine in Baltimore urged its precinct captains to make sure that all available ballots were marked. An unprecedented response, unknown in any other poll, was recorded. It is reported that foremen on WPA units asked the men to bring their ballot cards to a central place to be sent in. Likewise, in Negro wards, it is charged that workers collected the cards for mailing to the Sun. Then there are rumors that many of the ballots were marked in post offices here and there by early employees. One mistake was made by the Sun—it sent postcards to be returned, and that meant an open instead of a secret ballot. Persons on the relief rolls saw strange key numbers on the cards, and fear there might be some way to identify their votes if they balloted against the New Deal. The Sun itself comments on the hesitancy of rural voters to return the ballots because they felt that postmen on their route could tell what the ballot was and perhaps make a list of voters. Says the Sun in its final survey: "An explanation—other than there was no desire to participate in the poll—was offered for the lower percentage in county returns. It was pointed out that the mail collections in rural areas did not permit a maximum of secrecy and that persons may have declined to ballot for this reason."

This may or may not have been true also in the cities, but it is most regrettable that the poll was not taken on a basis of every third or fourth name, so as to confound the politicians, and with a ballot that could have been placed in a return envelope to be marked and sealed in secrecy. If one takes the Literary Digest poll of Maryland, the indicated majority for Mr. Roosevelt is about 27,000. If one applies 54 per cent as the percentage for Mr. Landan in the rural counties of Maryland, on the assumption that the rural counties here would be about the same as they are in other border states, like Missouri, it still gives Mr. Roosevelt about a 75,000 majority in Maryland. This, incidentally, it what a private estimate, made by disinterested sources, gives as the Maryland majority for President Roosevelt.

Marylanders are saying that, as their state goes so goes the nation, and that at no time has an election won for 50 years that has not followed the Maryland cue. This used to be said about New York state until 1916 shattered the myth and elected Wilson without New York or New Jersey or Indiana or Illinois.

This year, the border states are rather solidly Democratic, but none of them shows signs of approximating the four years ago majority of Mr. Roosevelt, and, in my judgment, Maryland will diminish the Roosevelt majority of 1932.

There has been some shifting of votes going on since the Sun poll was taken. Thus, for instance, workers are beginning to react unfavorably to the payroll tax. Not only are they discovering that the Roosevelt regime has imposed a one per cent tax that will have to be deducted from their pay envelopes, but that employers must pay a tax of two per cent next year, three per cent the next and four per cent the next year for the social security program. Strangely enough, the workers are interpreting what the employer has to pay as meaning that there can be no raises in pay to the employees for the next three years. Obviously, a payroll tax that the employer has to bear, which runs from $500,000,000 a year up to more than $1,140,000,000 at the end of the third year, is a tax the like of which American industry has never known.

Unless the tax can be passed on to the consumer, industry not only may be compelled by circumstances to hold up on any raises, but it may actually have to cut payrolls in order to give Uncle Sam the necessary toll.

Employers are beginning formally to notify their employees of the payroll tax that must be deducted from their pay envelopes in less than ninety days from date. This, in turn, is causing all sorts of questions to be asked and protests to be made. But employers are refraining for the most part from discussing the politics of it, leaving it to the workmen to draw their own conclusions from the facts of the law.

The importance of the issue, even though late in making its appearance, cannot be underestimated. Heretofore, for example, the highest number of persons to pay an income tax in America in any year has been around 5,000,000. Next January, 25,000,000 persons will feel a direct levy on their wage income.

Little Benny's Note Book

BY LEE PAPE

Saturday afternoon I was laying on the living room floor reading Paul Peppy Among the Insurrectoes, and ma stuck her head in with her hat on, saying, Benny, how would you like to come around to the store with me and help me carry home some groceries and things?

Aw G, ma, I'm just up to a certain place, I said, and ma said, You better not get me up to a certain place in my patience. Being a good anser, and I quick layed by book upside down on the floor and started to go with her, and Puds Simkins was sitting on his front steps, saying Where you going, Benny?

Ma just winkink back at him as if it was a grate secret and making a sine with my neck for him to come too, wich he hurry up jumped up and started to, ma saying, Well, I see we have an addition to the ranks.

Sure, ma, he can help us carry stuff, I said.

And we went passed Shorty Judge and Glasses Magee down at the corner and I turned around and whispered, Hay, cake and stuff, come on.

Wich they did, wawking in back of us without making any noise on account of me having whispered, and pritty soon Skinny Martin and Sid Hunt started to come along too on account of properly not wanting to miss anything, and Mrs. Harper went passed saying to ma, My, your family seems to of grown, and ma looked around and saw all the fellows, saying, Well for land sakes of all things, this is ridiculous.

Why is it, ma, they can all help, I said, and ma said, I don't intend to buy out the store, and I'm afraid I'll have to ask all you boys to excuse me.

Meaning to excuse themselves, and I said, G, ma, do you mean me too?

Yes yes, my goodness, everybody, ma said.

And us fellows all ran back yelling and racing each other, and we got up a game of cops and racketeers and I didn't see Paul Peppy again till after supper.

In the Long Ago

From The Register Files
25 Years Ago Today

OCTOBER 26, 1911

That Orange county produces annually nearly $1,500,000 in poultry and eggs, appears from figures compiled by the County Poultry Pigeon and Pet Stock association in a pamphlet just issued. This pamphlet was planned as a means of advertising the annual exhibition to be held in Santa Ana December 27 to 30, and contains the premium list and rules for the show, in addition to much interesting material regarding the poultry business.

That Santa Ana and Orange will be connected by an electric line within a few months, was assured given by Paul Shoup, vice president of the P. E.

DEMANDS FOR OBEDIENCE

"When I tell you to do something I expect you to do it immediately. Immediately, you understand? No waiting."

"I don't like immediately," wailed four-year-old Jamie. "I can't come so fast. I have to take my breath."

"Never mind taking your breath. Suppose the house was afire, and I called you to come and you took your time about it? You'd be burned up."

"No, I wouldn't. You'd yell, 'Fire!' and I'd jump like the fireman."

"O, I see. You mind immediately when you think it is necessary. Well, young man, just think it is necessary to come to dinner when I call you or you'll be sorry."

I am on the small child's side. He ought not to be expected to answer every call as he would a fire alarm. If the conscientious mother, who is trying so hard to teach a child prompt, willing obedience as a protection for himself, would stop to consider the matter she would cease to try for this emergency response on every occasion. Nobody goes to a fire three times a day, much less does he have to go a dozen times a day.

Many of the demands made upon children for obedience could profitably be omitted altogether. Many more could well be casual requests politely expressed as between friends. A few are important enough to warrant prompt attention. Meal calls among others. But even these are not to be emergency sirens. They are to be made only after the child's mind has been prepared to receive them.

A human mind is a force in motion. A child's mind engaged in play is going full speed ahead. You would apply your brakes gently as possible were you driving a car at such speed, or you might be sorry you didn't. For the very same reasons you apply the slow-down command gently, slowly, preparing the speeding machinery for the final stop. Only in the gravest emergency would you check power in full speed ahead.

In a few minutes I'll call you for dinner." "Five minutes call before dinner." That allows the child to slow down, prepare his mind and get his body under control so as to move easily and promptly in another direction. One activity must be checked, a new one accepted, directed and accomplished. The child must have time.

It is a sign of good household management to sound a pre-dinner call. That allows the children and the older ones, too, the time that is needed for preparation. Then prompt attendance at the table is only natural and reasonable. Beside that there is a calmer happier atmosphere about the whole proceeding that makes a mealtime the pleasant hour it ought to be.

Have no fear about the emergency call being overlooked. As the little boy suggested, you will yell "Fire!" Your voice will carry the danger call and instinctively he will respond to it. Obedience should be intelligent, but its intelligence must depend upon that quality in the orders given.

Mr. Patri has prepared a leaflet entitled, "Poor Readers," in which he gives parents many suggestions on how to help children to improve their reading. Send for it, addressing your request to Mr. Angelo Patri, Child Psychology Department of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope.

CONTROLLED PRODUCTION IN AGRICULTURE

Editor Register:

The communication of J. E. Winship in Tuesday's Register, relating to agricultural control, ignores salient facts and indulges in sophistries. After referring to the wheat, corn, cotton and hogs which were not raised, he says: "Five hundred thousand laborers would have found work hauling and processing the crops, if raised."

He thus presents the fallacy that the consumption of farm products is determined by the amounts raised, and not by the actual requirements.

In 1932 there were large surpluses of cotton and wheat; but that certainly did not mean that such surpluses were "processed", for the raw wheat remained in the granaries and elevators, and the raw cotton in the storage warehouses.

Mr. Winship also says those "underproduced" products have "fed and clothed 20 million of hungry and cold people." The inference is thereby created that the people were hungry and cold because crops had been restricted; whereas the truth is that it was when there existed the largest surpluses of wheat, cotton and hogs, in 1931 to 1933, that the people actually went hungry and cold, for they were then without means to purchase food and clothing. There were ample supplies thereof at all times.

We are further told by Mr. Winship that "too offset this, Argentina has increased her corn acreage 30 per cent and wheat acreage 10 per cent," and that Australia and other countries have increased their acreage. Also that "cotton acreage has been increased in Brazil and India."

Apparently Mr. Winship has fallen into the error of believing and repeating pure propaganda, without considering whether it is either true or logical.
